ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT WEYMOUTH, MASS., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

FRIDAY, APRIL 2, 1897.

The committee appointed at the town meeting to investigate certain acts of the selectmen have begun work and will have their first public hearing in Engine hall, Ward 3, Tuesday April 13th at 7:45 p. m. See ad.

What shall we do with the great army of unemployed is the question which is agitating the minds of philanthropists and economists all over the country. In Weymouth this need not be a very serious question for the next six months if people will lay hold of the idea that we have hundreds of acres of unimproved land which might be utilized and not only give occupation to the unemployed but give them a chance to make a comfortable livelihood. A well cultivated garden of half an acre can be made to produce all an ordinary family could consume in the way of vegetables and small fruits. It is a mistaken notion that Weymouth is just an agricultural town as can be cited from a large number of people who the past few seasons have not only found something to do outside of factories but have added materially to their table from the land lying idle.

New High School Building.

The committee appointed to carry into effect the vote of the town in regard to a new high school building met in the Jefferson school building last Saturday afternoon and proceeded to examine the several plans on which the sub-committee had reported as available places for the new structure, and after looking them all over selected one on a tract of land belonging to Thomas Orr on Middle street.

This is a tract of four and one-half acres about three miles north of the town corner, is on the west side of the street and is a fine site for a school house, and there is ample ground surrounding it. Like any other lot which may have been selected, it is open for some criticism, but comes as near giving universal satisfaction as could have been expected.

Investigation Committee a Hearing.

The committee appointed by the town to investigate the report of the Selectmen will meet at the Engine house, Ward 3, at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday, April 13, 1897.

All persons having charges to prefer will please be present, with witnesses, prepared to substantiate their charges. All testimony will be taken under oath.

ARTHUR C. HEALD, Clerk of Committee.

Death of Joseph D. Stiles.

Joseph D. Stiles, the well known spiritualist died Tuesday night of a short illness of consumption of the brain, brought on by a fall sustained two weeks ago. He was 65 years of age and was one of the most prominent spiritualists in the country and for many years had lectured and given tests in most every state in the Union. He was born in Waltham and when a young man learned the printers trade working for the late Sylvester Crocker, so that that time published the Universal paper, the "Trumpet" after learning his trade he became interested in spiritualism and had been a lecturer and test giver for nearly half a century, and was known all over the United States.

He had been a resident of this town for nearly fifty years. He never married, two sisters survive him, Mrs. J. H. Williams and Mrs. Joseph Crocker. The funeral will take place from his late residence this afternoon.

Superior to All Others.

One of the largest retail grocers in New Haven, H. M. Tower, writes as follows to Morse Brothers, Canton, Mass.

On Feb. 15, 1897, there was sold direct to families from our store 436 boxes of Sun Paste, Stove Polish, under the following guarantee, namely, that if Sun Paste was not as good or better than any paste polisher that they had ever used, we would give them their money back for the partly used box. Now remember this, out of those 436 boxes there was not one returned. On the contrary several ladies have voluntarily told me that it was the very best that they have ever used. In thirty days we have sold this paste to more than 600 different housekeepers, and no instance have we had a customer refuse to take it the second time; these are facts that a good housekeeper should remember.

Signed, H. M. Tower, Grocer, 379 Congress Ave., New Haven.

HURDY GURDY PARTY.

First Party Under the Auspices of the South Weymouth Fish and Gun Club.

The South Weymouth Fish and Gun Club, a comparatively newly organized club and which is composed of a number of the leading men in town and a few from the surrounding towns, gave its first party in Fogg's Opera house last Wednesday evening.

A pleasant evening combined with the interest which was manifested, not only by the members but by the general public, helped to make this party one of the most successful of the season.

Besides our own young people, there were large parties from Rockland, Braintree and other surrounding towns.

The main point of interest was the large stage which was transformed into a dancing and riding camp. The work was done under the direction of James Turrell, assisted by members of the club.

The scene represented the early morning with a bright red sun. The sun is seen coming up from behind the hills in the east. The camp itself is a tent, which was used at the battle of Vicksburg during the civil war, placed among the trees, and inside is a man asleep on a bed of pine boughs. Just outside the tent is a realistic stone fireplace with the coals still in a glow, while over it hang the kettles, ready for the morning meal. The floor is carpeted with pine needles and an expanded stone fireplace with the coals still in a glow, while over it hang the kettles, ready for the morning meal. The floor is carpeted with pine needles and an expanded stone fireplace with the coals still in a glow, while over it hang the kettles, ready for the morning meal.

Stuffed animals and birds are used to show how daring some of them are and also the quietness of the camp at this time.

A handsome fox with one paw raised is just about to enter the scene while a large rabbit is seen coming through a stone wall, while a gray squirrel sits on top of the tree as contented as can be.

Other birds are seen among the trees, and a fish and a turtle are scattered around while a number of dead birds and a string of fish show the work of the preceding day.

At the centre of the balcony is hung a large moon ball, while on either box and over the stage is hung a deer's head. Two of the deer were shot by members of the club while the moon ball, one deer head and the stuffed birds and animals are loaned by outside parties. The moon ball was kindly loaned by W. O. Chapman, Supt. of the Braintree & Weymouth Street railway.

The music was furnished by Prof. Antonio Grosse assisted by the tambourine artist Marie Grosse, which has just been imported.

The floor was in charge of E. H. Ford, assisted by C. H. Tinkham, F. H. Belcher, H. F. Vining, Geo. D. Holbrook, George Stowers, E. B. Packard and H. A. Bass.

The grand march started at 8:15 and during the evening there were about one hundred couples present.

The music was a decided novelty and the tambourine playing was fine. During the evening the young lady gave an exhibition of that art and also the art of playing an accordion, while later she sang to the accompaniment of that instrument.

About seven years ago he returned to South Weymouth, where he has since been identified with its people and is now as active a spirit as his could remain idle, and until within a very few years he has supplied vacant pulpits and spoken words of comfort over the remains of some old friend or companion.

Mr. Hewitt was married in 1852 to Miss Mary J. Cobb of Plymouth, and four children were born to them, two boys and two girls, one of whom, Mrs. John Sherman, survives him.

Their golden wedding was celebrated on Sept. 17th, 1882, which was an event of more than passing interest.

The funeral services were held in the Universalist church last Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock and were largely attended.

Rev. Anson Titus, a former pastor of this church, conducted the services and he was assisted by Dr. Emerson, editor of the Christian Leader; Rev. Elmer Hewitt Capen, D. D., a namesake of the deceased and president of Tufts college; and Rev. Dr. Sawyer, who is 95 years of age and has preached until within two years. All spoke loving words of tribute of him who has gone.

Excellent music was furnished by a quartette composed of Miss Maud Townsend, Mrs. Geo. Bayley, N. F. Vining and J. M. Whitcomb.

The body was carried to Hanson for interment.

The bearers were Messrs. John Blanchard, Frank Derby, David S. Murray and John Thomas.

OBITUARY.

Rev. Elmer Hewitt.

One of the Oldest Universalist Clergymen in Massachusetts.

The Rev. Elmer Hewitt of South Weymouth, one of our oldest citizens, and also one of the oldest clergymen in the Universalist denomination in Massachusetts, passed away at his residence on Pond street last Sunday.

Mr. Hewitt was born at Ponder, Vt., Sept. 15, 1805, and was the son of Henry and Hannah (Hague) Hewitt, and descended from an ancestry whose patriotic blood has ever found in him a champion of the downtrodden and oppressed.

His grandfather was a veteran of the Revolution and his was with Gen. Putnam at Bunker Hill.

His early life was passed upon a farm and in 1827, at the age of 22, he went to Plymouth and read theology with his cousin, who was settled over the Universalist society there, and in the meantime taught school.

On Sept. 2, 1829, he was ordained to the ministry in the Universalist church in Plymouth. His first charge was in Hanson, where he preached his first sermon, and where he was soon after settled.

While settled in Hanson, Mr. Hewitt devoted much time in the lecture field, expounding the doctrine of temperance, and anti-slavery, during which time his acquaintance was extended to the leading men of the times.

At the time of his work in Hanson, he was also doing itinerant work in Abington, which resulted in the establishment of a thriving parish in that town, and later he was called to the charge of the church in 1835, he accepted an invitation to become the pastor of the Universalist church at South Weymouth.

Two large parties from Rockland, Braintree and other surrounding towns.

The main point of interest was the large stage which was transformed into a dancing and riding camp. The work was done under the direction of James Turrell, assisted by members of the club.

Putting Down Carpets.

You will find people everywhere engaged in laying the carpets, straw matting and oil cloths bought of us.

We ourselves are principally engaged just now in putting down the carpets.

Laying carpets is a difficult and annoying undertaking, as every housewife knows. If you buy your carpet of us we will undertake the cutting, making and laying at a nominal expense. Our prices are way down on Furniture also.
